A high schoolboy's wish to be in class in time and not to miss even a part of the lesson deeply impressed servants of many years at Burgas Regional Administration who have been faced with all kinds of warnings, complaints and claims of citizens in their career. His father gave the warning of the schoolboy's problem in the Governor's reception hours. It has been made quite clear in the conversation that a problem occurs with the transportation of passengers from Kiten where the family lives to Burgas where the boy goes to highschool. The earliest bus departure hour from Kiten is 6.50 a.m. and the schoolday starts on 7.30 a.m. so in fact despite his wish to be in class in time the schoolboy from Kiten is being forced to miss the first school hours every day.

The boy's teachers who know pretty good the situation compromise and ignore his delays. But the schoolboy himself does not accept the lack of transport as a valid reason for missing lessons and classes which he considers important for his future progress. Impressed by the schoolboy's wish to strictly observe his school obligations Governor Valcho Cholakov ordered rapid inspection of the transport schemes of Burgas, Tsarevo and Primorsko municipalities with the aim to find a variant for solving of the problem. It was found that there is a bus with an approved departure hour 6.00 a.m. from Tsarevo but it does not function in winter season due to lack of passengers what makes this bus route non-profitable. After a good coordination with the three municipalities Mr Cholakov has been assured by officials who are responsible for passenger transport that from this February the bus route will function according to time-table which will cover the transport of pupil from settlements out of Burgas so they can arrive on time at the beginning of the schoolday for the morning class.
