
Hundreds of balloons in memory of the children who got killed on the roads have been flied to the sky by first grade pupils of the school "St. Kliment Ohridsky" in Burgas. Thereby they expressed also their hope of more untroubled and bright future. An open training on road safety has been organized today in the school and representatives of the Burgas clergy held a service for health of the youngest participants in the road traffic. The kids were most interested in both cars of the Protective and Road Police.

The initiatives of the 3rd Global Road Safety Week "Save the life of the children" continued at the Marine Casino where the school graduates observed many demonstrations related to road safety.
